Curlew Carving

By June Noll
JUNE NOLL
WILDLIFE ARTIST
Sculptor / Artist

June lives in Brewster in the heart of Cape Cod, Massachusetts. Surrounded by an abundance of sea life, bird life and animal life, June creates wildlife art of a wide variety of animals and birds. Having an avid interest in wildlife since early childhood and combining it with a natural talent for painting and sculpture has given her fuel for the creation of works with personality.

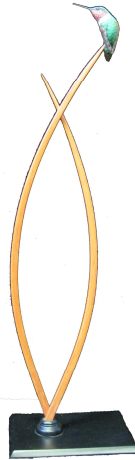

June is basically a self-taught wildlife artist, drawing on a background of studio arts and art history in college. Her techniques for carving, texturing and painting have involved over a life-long endeavor of the creative process.

June has exhibited her work locally and nationally and has received many National awards.

Hummingbird Carving

By Eric Kaiser

Eric Kaiser
Eric's fondness for waterfowl came from growing up on the water. In the 1980s, he was introduced to the art of carving, from then on, sculpting waterfowl would become his life's work. After more than two decades of dedication, Eric has established himself among the nations finest decorative decoy makers and wildfowl artists. His work has been featured in magazines and calendars, and is found in private and public collections internationally. On the World stage, Kaiser is among an exclusive group to have earned the title of Master, awarded by the Ward Foundation to those receiving top honors at the World Championships. Eric creates the satiny, inviting look that is his hallmark by using a warm pallet and many thin glazes of oil paint layered over fine detailing applied to Tupelo wood. He makes his home in Cotuit on Cape Cod with his wife, their son, and the birds that frequent the backyard pond and nearby bays.
